The Saxons borrowed their day-names from some Latin people, substituting their own equivalent gods:

Latin	Saxon
Dies Solis	Sun's Day
Dies Lunae	Moon's Day
Dies Martis	TIW's Day
Dies Mercurii	Woden's Day
Dies Jovis	Thor's Day
Dies Veneris	Frigg's Day
Dies Saturni	Saturne's Day

Woden is the Scandinavian Odin, the German Wotan. Thor is his son and like Jove, is King of heaven and god of thunder. Frigg is Woden's wife. The old Scandinavian Saturday is Loverday, washing-day or bath-night;

AD 800

Arab traders arriving in western Africa around AD 800 in search of gold, slaves, and ivory, discovered at Kumbi Saleh the city state called Ghana, which had evidently emerged some centuries earlier. Other complex societies thrived in the tropics at that time. Hindu Buddhist temples at PRAMBANAN in ~~Indochina~~ Indonesia, and ANGKOR in Indochina, testified to the influence of Indian trades
